

COST

Animation costs are determined by the following factors:

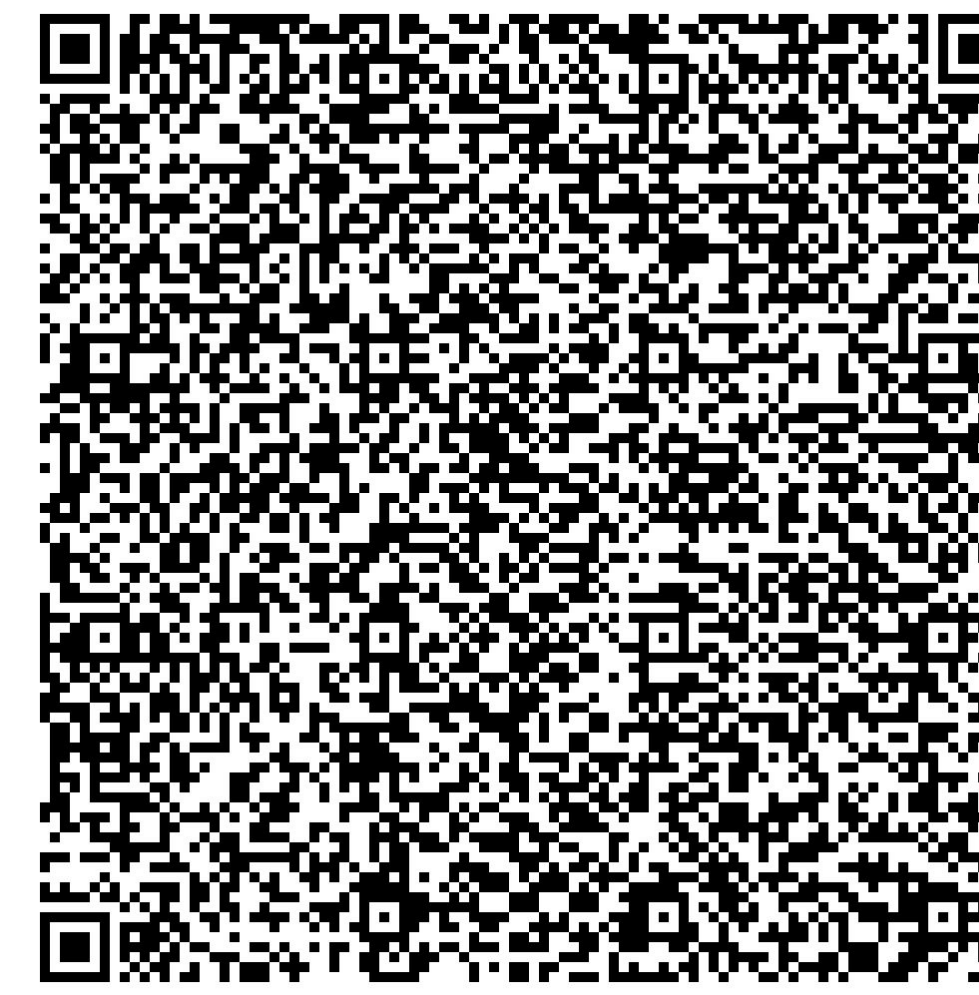

- Case complexity
- Intended focus of the animation
- Length of provided depositions
- Number of 3D models
- Intricacies of character animation
- Highlighting of internal injuries
- Overall length of the final product

During the free initial consultation, we work closely with our clients to align our vision and deliverables calendar with their budget and timeline to ensure a smooth and timely production process.

After we submit our proposal, we agree on any potential tradeoffs before beginning any work. Our goal is always to craft an impactful visual representation of transpired events while always respecting budgets.

What Are the Animations Based On?

We incorporate elements from as many sources as provided, such as:

- Depositions
- Police reports
- Photographs and videos
- X-ray, MRI, and CT scans
- Maps and satellite images
- Eyewitness and expert testimony
- Measurements from the scene
- Line of sight studies
- Time distance diagrams
- Blueprints and schematics
- 3D laser scans
- Photogrammetry

Optionally, we can incorporate the raw evidence into the animation as superimposed graphics or in certain cases as scanned 3D representations.

How Are Our Prices Determined?

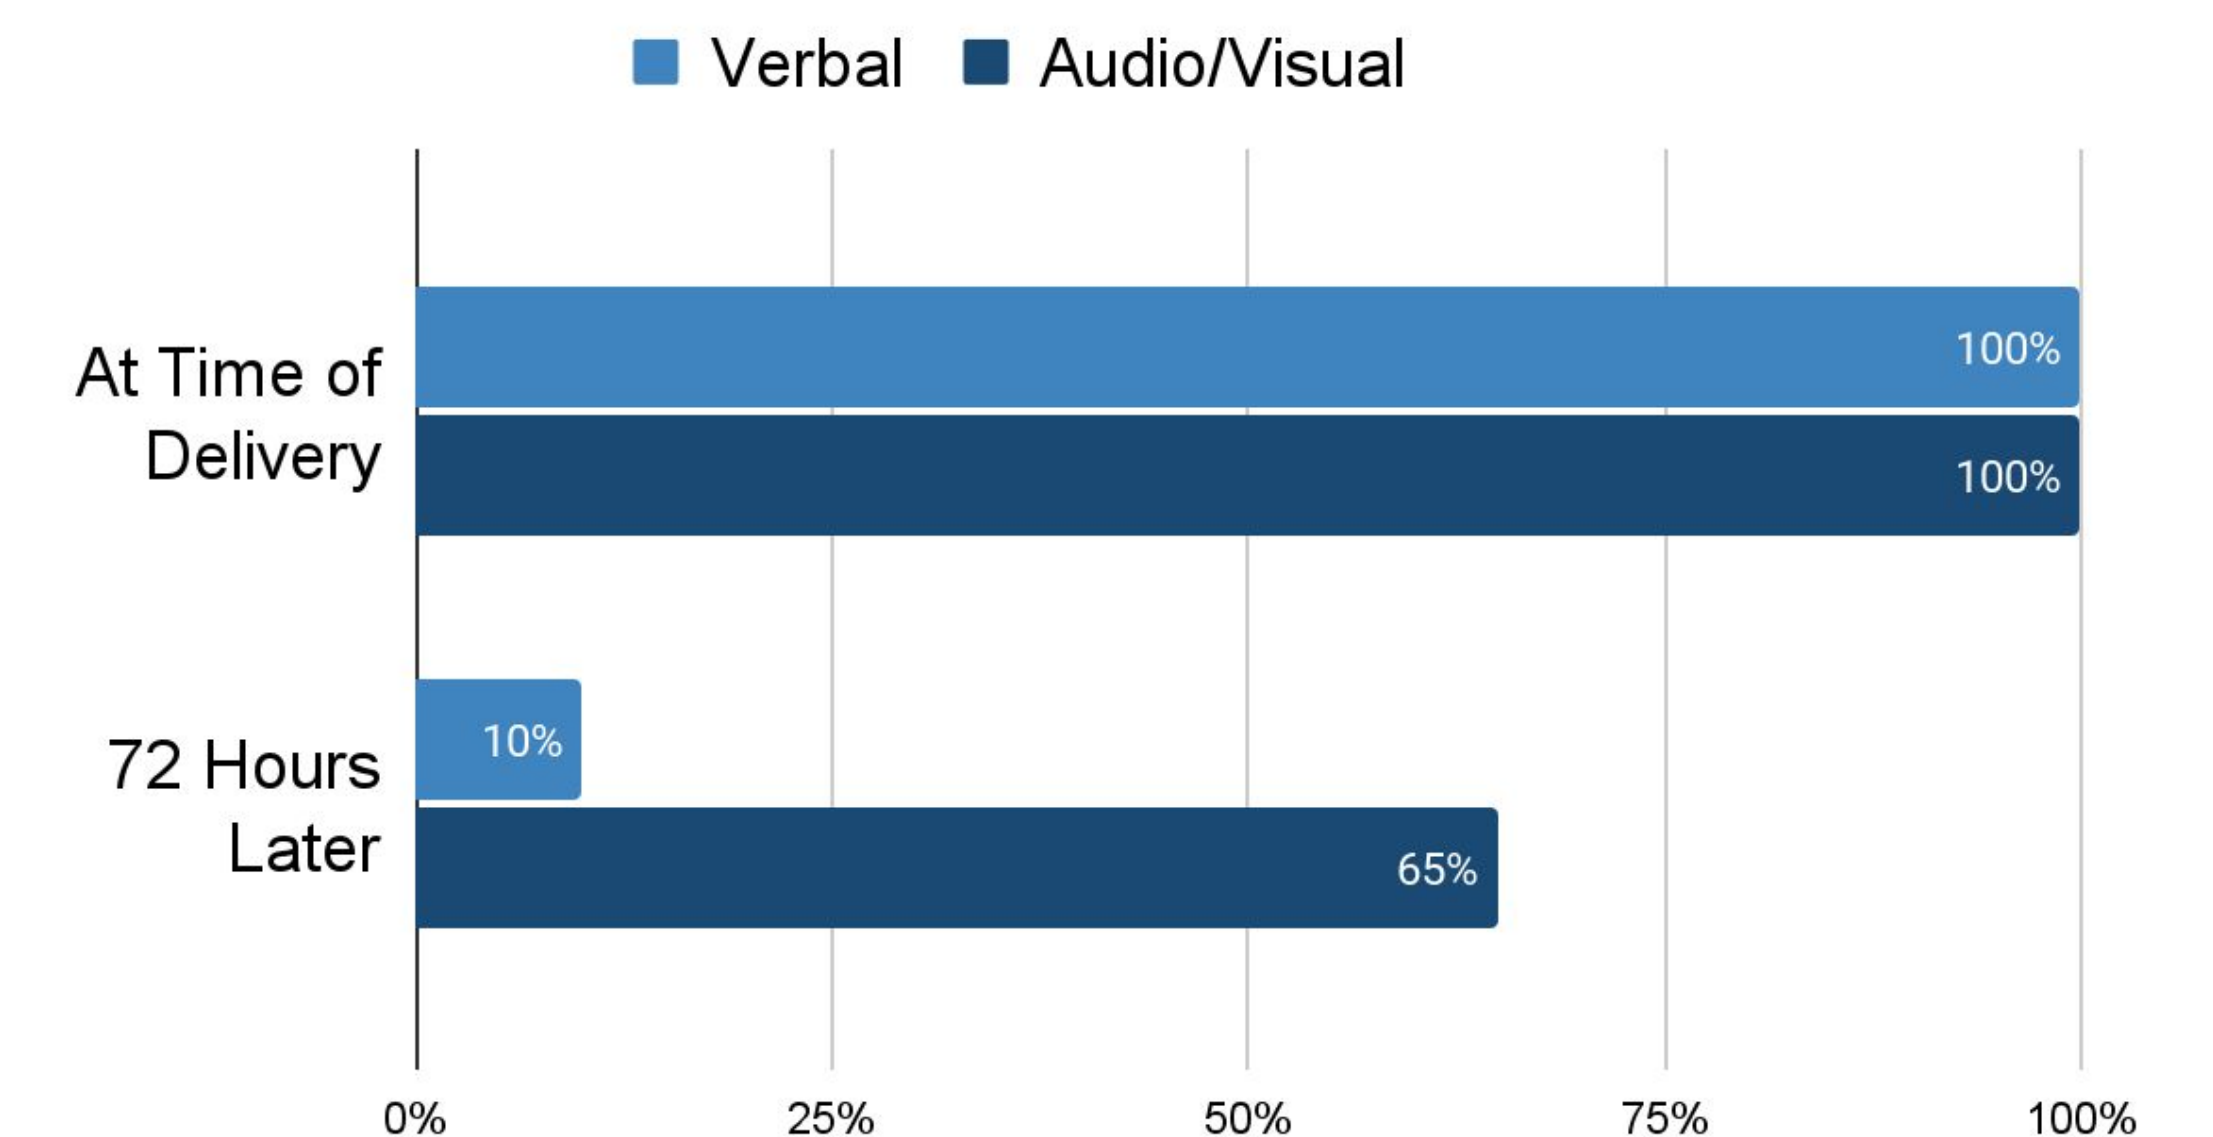

Once you've completed our intake form, we produce a set of three proposals:

- Basic proposal - Begins at $1,000 for inanimate 3D models or $5,000 for simple traffic accidents that focus solely on the vehicles.
- Enhanced proposal - Starting at $10,000, this includes human models with basic character movements and meticulous attention to detail.
- Deluxe proposal - Animations at this tier may showcase details such as internal bruising and broken bones. Final pricing to be determined based on case complexity.

Importance of Animations

High-impact visual graphics help present complex information clearly and memorably with higher retention rates over the course of the deliberations.
